

Pre-exposure Rabies Vaccine Information for Volunteers at Southwest Wildlife Rehabilitation & Educational Foundation

Volunteers must have the series of pre-exposure rabies shots before they can begin to perform any task which involves the possibility of direct physical contact with an animal.

Although you may choose another option, Southwest Wildlife has set up an account for the series of pre-exposure rabies vaccinations through Banner Health, who seems to be the least expensive in the Valley.

The pre-exposure rabies series consists of three shots. At Banner Health, each shot in the series costs $140.

Call Banner's Centralized Scheduling at 602-417-3511 to arrange the shots. Be sure to tell them that you're from Southwest Wildlife.

You should have your rabies titer checked every 2 years after the original series. If, at any time, your titer indicates that you need a booster shot, it will cost another $140.

If you have any questions about the pre-exposure rabies vaccination series, please email our Volunteer Coordinator at volunteer@southwestwildlife.org or call Southwest Wildlife at 480-471-9109.
